Your article was successfully shared with the contacts you provided. Have you checked your social media pages lately? Or do you check them at all? Many entrepreneurs find the activity of social media an emotional roller coaster ride — at least, it is for me. I often feel like what I post on one social media platform will be well received and the next platform will have me spammed with so many followers I won't be able to check my phone. This seems to be one issue we all face — finding time to be on social media and not resenting all those people who comment on our posts and wish you peace and good health. I'm going to break down the best online social media profits to do from home to help you find a balance between your busy schedule and our social media interactions. 1. Twitter If you have an established following on Twitter, then you can set up your autoresponder to schedule messages to your followers, allowing you to also earn some money as you send out tweets on a regular basis. 2. Fiverr If you're good with a camera, you can start snapping photos of what you see around you and turn them into various artistic pieces, such as bird photography, typography and design, etc. While some sellers provide editing services, you can usually do all the photo editing yourself and just use Fiverr to make money from your photographs. 3. Instagram If you love taking pictures and enjoy posting them on social media, then try out Instagram. The platform allows you to showcase your photos in a quick and fun manner — simply snap and share. While you can easily spend hours photo-sharing, try setting up an auto-post function that allows you to schedule your images to be posted on your Facebook page, website and so on. 4. Snapchat Snapchat is a social media platform that allows you to see photos or video that can be sent to one or more friends or just the person you are communicating with. While you are 09e8f5149f
