I am writing a Selenium test case, and I need to have my automated test case go to a certain web page (the URL of which varies) and modify a particular input field (the URL of which also varies). For example, if I input an "h" in the search field, then my automated test case should find an "H" in the page. However, I am not sure how to configure my test case to search for this "H" and then update the input field. The web page that I need to test is a WebApplication on a Web Server. So far, my code looks like this:

from selenium import webdriver
import time
class TestAutomation(object):
    def __init__(self):
        self.driver = webdriver.Firefox()
        self.driver.implicitly_wait(30)
    def get(self):
        pass
    def runTest(self):
        input1 = 'h'
```
