I have a table in a relational database for which I have a query similar to this: SELECT "Peer"."PersonID", "Person"."FirstName", "Person"."LastName", "Person"."City", "Person"."Zip", "Service"."PersonID" AS "PeerPersonID", "Service"."ServiceID" AS "ServiceID", "Service"."FuncID" AS "ServiceFuncID", "Service"."StartDate", "Service"."EndDate", "Service"."Description" FROM "Grocery"."Peer" AS "Peer" LEFT JOIN "Grocery"."Person" AS "Person" ON "Peer"."PersonID" = "Person"."PersonID" LEFT JOIN "Grocery"."Service" AS "Service" ON "Peer"."ServiceID" = "Service"."ServiceID" WHERE "Peer"."PersonID" = 3 The tables are related to each other (Grocery.Peer.PersonID = Service.PeerPersonID and Grocery.Person.ServiceID = Service.ServiceID). The query works great for every field except I need to include a subquery that would return the join values as two fields: PersonID and PeerPersonID (the ID of the Person who happens to be a Peers "Peer") and I'd like a variable field that returns the entire table for that kind of lookup. I would like for it to look like this: SELECT "Peer"."PersonID", "Person"."FirstName", "Person

Pass the limit for the overall.The present invention relates to a joint for use in a power transmission belt. In particular, the present invention relates to a separable joint for use in a power transmission belt, which is particularly well adapted to absorb heat and sustain a high tensile load. Conventionally, the trailing edge of a separable joint is comprised of a flat metal plate of a thickness of 0.1 to 0.3 mm and having a width of 2 to 5 mm that is folded at an angle of 30 to 45 degrees along the direction of movement and attached to a power transmission belt. Although this type of separable joint is capable of withstanding the tensile load and heat of a power transmission belt, it has the disadvantage of poor durability in the joint portion where the folded part of the joint overlaps the power transmission belt. FIG. 1 shows the construction of a joint of this type. A separable joint is comprised of an attachment part a, which is fixed to the belt surface by heat caulking, and a folding part b, which is integrally formed with the attachment part a, and which is formed with a fold line c that separates a belt 1 interposed therebetween and forms a belt recess in an area where the fold line contacts the belt surface. Thus, the separable joint is fixed between the belt 1 and the attachment part a in a single operation by caulking the fold line c. In order to improve the resistance to heat of the separ 82138339de
