In order to install it, you will first need to tap the Google Settings icon to open it up on your device and then tap on the System update option. Once it is installed, you will receive a notification that will ask you to restart your TV box. The update will restore the ability to use the Google Maps and Google.com interface. If this device has a Chromecast functionality, then you can watch whatever videos you have installed on the TV using the Google Cast feature. You can even take advantage of the Chromecast functionality on the TV and experience the same content. However, this is just a software update and not a firmware update. So, you will have to ensure that the mobile device that is connected to the TV box is updated before using the Google Maps. You can download the software update for Android TV boxes from here and then install it. It will fix the Google Maps interface on the device. If you see the screen that flashes about the Google Maps application losing functionality, then you should install the update. It will completely fix the Google Maps application. You can also find the video tutorial for this update below: The proper way to upgrade your old Android TV box to the latest software is to just use this update, but Google recommends that you should contact your television service provider to make sure that the device is supported by this update. In this case, if the device cannot support this update, then you will have to manually reinstall the Google Maps application. Please Note: This software update is only available for wild perfumes. Erica Morgan Erica Morgan is a fictional character from the Australian Channel Seven soap opera Home and Away, played by Alice Jarrett. She first appeared on-screen in the episode broadcast on 20 June 1998. Jarrett was initially contracted to appear on the show until 1999. Morgan's storylines include the creation of supercouple Marco Russo and Kylie Russell (Adam Robb), while she develops feelings for her ex-boyfriend, Liam Harrington (Lincoln Younes). Morgan departed the show on 7 March 2001. Morgan's character was killed off-screen off-screen in 2001. Jarrett reprised the role in 2004 for two episodes. Casting Jarrett's casting was announced in April 1998. She was contracted to appear for three months. On 22 July 1998, it was announced that Jarrett had quit the show and she departed on 20 June 1999. Jarrett re-signed in March 1999 to appear for another six months. Morgan's character Erica is introduced as the best friend of Sam Brown (Jessica Muschamp). Development Jarrett was attracted to Erica's sexy and sassy personality. She enjoyed the drama behind Erica's background, which allowed her to explore the character further. Upon joining the cast, she was put into the spotlight and had to deal with the press. Erica's storylines saw her committing a murder, getting locked in a bedroom and getting tangled in a love triangle. Erica has an "endearing and sticky" relationship with her best friend Sam Brown. Of this relationship, Jarrett said "she [Sam] is a good friend to Erica and she doesn't want Erica to end up hurting anyone", adding that they are "like sisters. She's a good girl and she's innocent". Jarrett enjoyed playing the flirtatious and prancing role. Her character was written as being sexually aggressive. She had to develop a flirtatious manner to keep the character fresh and to retain the audience's interest. For her portrayal of Erica, Jarrett was nominated for Best Newcomer at the 2001 Logie Awards. Departure In 2001, Jarrett quit Home
