It looks exciting and I would like to try it out. However I am stuck because the tutorials talk about loading a library and that means they're only useful if you have access to a lot of libraries. Can I make a dynamic web component out of scratch? A: Here is a useful example of a dynamic web component (based on Polymer, but the code is generic) : The working example is not ready, you'll have to expand it a bit. The content of the Polymer project is available on this page : Here is a very nice series of video about polymer : Edit: I forgot to mention that what you need to make a dynamic web component is to use the tag : United States Court of Appeals FOR THE EIGHTH CIRCUIT
