Produced from 1962-65, this was the first, and until 1973 the only, release from the Swedish group of the same name. The album was recorded and released by Philips at the same time as Sargents and Sargents album Some Day We'll Know. The band had the same line-up as the latter, but with the addition of the singer/bassist later known as Bo Stief (i.e., Strof) who was also a member of the Swedish band Ensemble. Not until the release of the band's most famous album in 1972, Till ljuset från underjorden (To the Light from the Depths), did the band adopt its present line-up with the addition of the highly regarded guitarist and composer Per Lindvall, but with the exception of the single "You Have Confessed My Sin" none of the music from the first two albums are included. The music is distinctly symphonic, recalling some of the music by Ensemble. There is a distinct reggae influence. The musicians are strongly influenced by Stan Getz and Oscar Peterson, as well as Mahler, Wagner, Debussy, Gershwin and Stravinsky, but with a strong folk influence. The album includes Swedish versions of Norwegian songs "Hindebjørn" and "Bord på fjorden", the latter being the only Norwegian music. The lyrics were partly in the Norwegian dialect, partly in Swedish and partly in English.
