August 13, 2020 - They will crush when chewed, but will not break into sharp objects. They are completely digestible by dogs. Apart from tiny bones, chicken feet. These foods contain a lot of calcium and phosphorus, which are well absorbed by the dog's body. Dogs are very fond of milk. It is rich in calcium and phosphorus salts, protein, and B vitamins. Due to the high fat content, milk should be given only fresh and with a small salt content (1/2 teaspoon of salt per 1 liter of milk). In second place in terms of the content of calcium, phosphorus and other substances is the egg yolk. It is 100% digestible. But you have to give it occasionally because of the
